

The Society for Romanian Studies

Announces:

The Seventh Biennial SRS Book Prize

The Society for Romanian Studies invites nominations for the Seventh Biennial SRS Book Prize awarded for the best scholarly book published in English in the humanities or social sciences, on any subject relating to Romania or Moldova and their diasporas.

To be eligible,

- books must have been published between 1 January 2021 and 31 December 2022 as indicated by the copyright date
- books may be in any academic field, with a predominant focus on Romanian or Moldovan subject matter (including subjects relating to the activities of non-Romanian ethnic groups on Romanian or Moldovan territory). Edited books, translations, reprints or new editions of works published before 2021, and non-scholarly books are not eligible
- the author of the submitted book must be an SRS member.

The prize carries with it an award of $500. Either authors or publishers of books may make submissions. Submissions should be sent to the SRS prize committee by 1 September 2023.

Three copies of each submitted book should be sent by mail, one copy directly to each committee member at the addresses below. Questions or inquiries can be sent to the committee chair, Cristian Cercel, via email at cristian.cercel@idgl.bwl.de. The award will be announced in December 2023.

SRS Book Prize Committee Members:

Cristian CERCEL

Researcher
Institute for Danube Swabian
History and Regional Studies
Mohlstr. 18, 72074, Tübingen,
Germany

Camelia CRĂCIUN

Associate Professor
New Europe College
Str. Plantelor 21, 023971,
Bucharest, Romania

Raluca GROSESCU

Lecturer
National University of Political Science and Public Administration
Department of Political Sciences
Str. Povernei 6, 030167, Bucharest,
Romania

About the SRS Book Prize:

For details of the Prize and past winners please see:

<https://society4romanianstudies.org/awards-prizes/>